Ask Colonel Clearwater

Dear Colonel Clearwater, What a honor and... Forget experience. Look at expertise. You have to admit that Sen. McCain has a better grasp on foreign policy than the opposition. Adm. G. L. Lingo, Florida

Dear Colonel Clearwater, I liked the old Clearwater Sun better. At least you could wrap mullet in it. But your election issue really burned my nose. It's obvious that you retouched the photo. (Background gone, etc.) It looks to me like you also shaved some love handles. What's with you? These politicians ain't no Nikes baby. Ed Smith

Dear Mr. Smith, When Paula Match tried adjusting the lighting on their picture of the French president, he belly shrank because "The correction was exaggerated during the printing process." It's surprising how many photos have been accidentally altered in. Rosemary Woods esque style dark room/computer incidents.

A code of ethics that won't let you remove the soup stains from a guy's tie is basically flawed. I, for one, prefer pretty pictures. Colonel Clearwater

Dear Colonel Clearwater, Barack Obama's preacher said "America's children are coming home to roost" and other scary stuff. I think we should vote against him. What do you think? P. Jones

Dear Mr. Jones, When I was a sprout in a little church in the Woodwood, my preacher got in front of the flock who were flipping cantabrock fans with a funeral company's sell. He took out a handkerchief, wiped his brow and said, "It's a G* D*  hot day out there." After the gasps died down he went on, "I heard a teenager say that to his friends this morning." Then he delivered a fiery sermon on "Bring the Lord's home in vain." He wasn't my preacher. I don't think he should have used bad words in church. But he didn't consult me before saying it. And some of the grown-ups seemed to like it. (I think I was right at the time.)

I have a news flash for you: last surprised and (try not to feel silly.)
